

As a person who drives all over the US and needs Weather reports as well as traffic reports when I need them not when some DJ remembers to do his job instead talking and not haveing the time to bother with the reports. Also trying to find a station ever feww miles that even gives reports at all and then maybe once or twice only before getting out of range of their signal and having to look for another station which will have the music,weather, and road reports, when I need them.Xm has been a great improvement in the way that radio is ment to be not what some station managers idea of what I want to hear. Thank you
